Ground Rules How This Training Session Will Go

Before we discuss what we will be discussing, lets address what we will not be discussing

For example: We will not be

Interrupting Each other

Taking Pictures of the other participants Without their Permission

Making People Wrong

Pointing Fingers

What's the point anyway what's the purpose? What is the promise?

The purpose of this experience is to bring clarity about what matters to you. To empower you to create a world where you are loved, supported, and unstoppable.*

The Promise is to have others get the power and magic within you that creates transformation all around you that leaves you as an unleashed force of nature.*

*You will be someone who is a unique contribution knowing yourself as someone who makes a difference.
You will be trained to communicate*

We will be distinguishing Integrity What it is and what it is not

Please Answer These Three Questions

- What comes to mind when you hear the word integrity?
- What were you told when you were young about integrity?
- What is a myth about the word integrity?

Integrity is not Morality. Morality deals with wrong or right, good or bad. Integrity deals with something operating as it was designed. Integrity deals with you being whole and complete. Integrity is a way of being and it is about who you get to be as a matter of word.*

---

1 - Where are you going with this Bike?

2 - What about this one?

- Out of Integrity
  - Without Integrity Nothing works

- This is what Integrity looks like when it is whole and complete
  - When it operates as design

What's Up with Restoring Integrity?

1. Broken Agreements

- a. Identify and select the people with whom you have broken a promise or agreement. With each of these people, clean up the mess you have made by breaking that promise or agreement. Share with those people what you didn't do, the impact of not doing it and not saying anything, and the possibility you are now inventing with them.*

2. Principles for Restoring Integrity

---

- a. Distinguish in the context of being present while interacting with yourself and others do this*

i. Acknowledge the broken promise or agreement (Only the facts, no story)

ii. Accept the consequences of having broken the agreement or promise

iii. Communicate with the people or person - get the impact your broken agreement had on them

iv. Clear it and clean it up; the mess you made. Choose what is appropriate to clean up the mess and deal with that.

b. Put in place whatever you need to put in to complete on the broken agreement

c. Create a strong habit in consistently, establish a record of honoring your word such that trust is restored.

3. *Undelivered communications, Resentments, or Regrets

---

a. Make a list of people you have not completed communication with or you have resentment, or regret towards

b. *Then Contemplate

i. What is the Undelivered Communication, Resentment or Regret?

ii. Clean up any mess from your withholding

iii. What is your ask or request that will have this be complete

iv. What are you promising to do what will complete this occurrence

v. What promises do you have regarding being in communication with regards to this occurrence for the future?

- Integrity is being whole and complete
  - Integrity gives you the maximum opportunity to perform
  - Integrity is like a universal law it is independent of your opinion
  - for a human being my access to being whole and complete - being someone who has integrity is honoring my word and keeping present an empowering conversation/Context

"Simply put, integrity as we define it provides access to incredible increases in performance - in whatever performance you are interested in - as well as the personal peace and self-confidence that comes from being a well-integrated person." - Michael Jensen, Texas A&M University
